

The University of Texas at Austin School of Architecture

The figures below represent the estimated direct and indirect annual costs of attendance for any program offered by the School of Architecture. All indirect costs are estimations based on students' potential needs during a nine-month academic year. Individual expenses will vary depending on personal purchasing choices and needs.

These estimates apply to students admitted for the 2025-2026 school year. Additionally, prices tend to increase annually due to inflation, so anticipate a potential 3.75%-4.25% increase in prices when calculating costs for the duration of a program.
